Clear All System Settings: Disconnect network cable from both sides Then reboot PC Disable Automatic Updates There are some other recommended steps that I must record here for others to follow. From the Apps & Features tab: Choose "Turn on Automatic Updates" to switch it off and restart Windows Update Make sure that there are no additional updates running Uninstall apps that make changes to the system registry or create new ones Disconnect and re-attach all connected USB and FireWire devices From the Windows desktop: Open the Control Panel Click "Uninstall a Program" Choose "View installed updates" Select Updates for Autodesk, select Autodesk Software and click Remove Updates From the Start menu: Click "Control Panel" Click "Uninstall a Program" Choose "View installed updates" Select "Autodesk Software and Apps", click "More Options", and select "Uninstall updates for Autodesk Software and Apps" NOTE: The AutoCAD 2020 product will be installed as Autodesk AutoCAD 2020, but it will be renamed to "AutoCAD Design 2020" in the taskbar and dropdowns. Upgrade, use provided USB key, or OEM disc if provided Go to its file location (typically C:Program Files\Autodesk\AutoCAD\en_US) Overwrite the current installation with the install file contained on the USB key or CD. On Windows 7: Click Start, right click on the file, select "Run as administrator" On Windows 8: Click Start, right click on the file, select "Run as administrator" On Windows 10: Click Start, right click on the file, select "Run as administrator" Reboot The installation will reset PC settings, so you will need to make sure you have downloaded all applications you want to install before running the install, and that you connect to the internet before the install, or have this resolved in the installation. NOTE: The map extension program may ask you for your map resolution, you can set it in the Help menu. You can also access help from the Help menu > More Information. 2017 2010 2006 The AutoCAD 2010 product can be installed by simply: Click Next Click Install c6a93da74d
