The Child of Chaos is one of the most dangerous monsters on record, but nearly extinct. Children are now rarer than ever before, and multiple sightings have been reported throughout the greater Known SCP-Web. You are assigned to a Special Containment Team (SCT) mission to eliminate all active SCP-363s, but an alarm of a containment breach alerts you of an imminent threat. Your mission is to locate the source of the alarm and find the location of the breach in order to contain the threat before it's too late. This is the story of one man's desperate attempt to survive. Get ready to traverse the deepest, darkest tunnels of the network.1. Field of the Invention The present invention relates to an amplifier circuit suitable for use in a wireless communication device. 2. Description of the Related Art In general, a radio frequency (RF) amplifier circuit is required to be miniaturized and to operate with low power consumption. Accordingly, as semiconductor technologies advance, highly-integrated MOSFET transistors are designed for use in amplifying RF signals. In addition, a wireless communication device is required to be highly-integrated so as to be implemented in a small size with low power consumption. Therefore, the aforementioned highly-integrated MOSFET transistors are used in amplifying circuits and filter circuits included in a wireless communication device (for example, a wireless communication system such as a cellular phone) so as to comply with miniaturization and high-integration. The above-described RF amplifiers often employ cascaded amplifiers in order to increase the output signal level. Here, in the case of increasing the output level while maintaining the same amplification factor, the noise figure of a transistor, which is a measure of noise, is caused to increase, thereby degrading the output level of the cascaded amplifier. As a result, the maximum output level of the cascade amplifier is limited. In addition, as the capacity of a wireless communication device increases, the number of RF amplifiers is increased. However, since the number of RF amplifiers cannot be increased, the RF signals input to these RF amplifiers need to be partially amplified with the use of a single RF amplifier. Accordingly, each RF amplifier is required to operate with a moderate input level and to provide a high output level. For example, in the case of an RF amplifier employing the use of an NPN (or PNP) bipolar transistor, a maximum output voltage $V_{.sub.B}$ c9d1549cdd
